FEDERATION of INTERNATIONAL TOUCH

Presents the HISTORY of

WALES TEST MATCHES
2003 - 2013

The Welsh Touch Association first began a test campaign against New Zealand in August 2003 at Cardiff, Wales. Only a Mixed Senior division was contested and although Mixed was their strongest national division at the time they were no match for their Southern Hemisphere rivals.

The Home Test series between Wales and Scotland was the brain child of two of each countries stalwarts; Neil "Perky" Perkins of Wales and Gordon "Gogs" McEwen of Scotland. The games were sanctioned by the respective National Committees and then by F.I.T as test matches

The games were played at Pontyclun, Wales. These records trace the history of all test matches played by the Welsh Touch Association
